When: The best time to pick blackberries in the UK is August, September and early October.

Remember:

Once you've got your blackberries home, wash them under the tap to remove any bugs that may be lurking.

Don't: Make sure when picking not to pick fruit from polluted areas like roadsides or from the low down branches as this is where dogs may have weeded on them

Where: You can find blackberries all around the UK, including: near the edge of forests because they like sunlight; parks; shrubbed areas.

They are often found in overgrown areas in towns.
